The Peace Problem

INTRODUCTION BY Andrew Carnegie

The Task of the Twentieth Century

By FREDERICK LYNCH, Director of N. Y. Peace Society

¶ Andrew Carnegie commends this book in no stinted terms. "I have read this book from beginning to end with interest and profit. I hope large editions will be circulated by our peace organizations among those we can interest in the noblest of all causes."

16mo, cloth, net, 75 cents.A New Story Absolutely True to Scottish Life

Heather and Peat

By A. D. STEWART

¶ A new claimant to a place among the band of writers who have interpreted Scottish life and character, Mr. Stewart is not hastily to be classed with Mr. Crockett or "Ian Maclaren." He is himself; individual in his characterization and in his literary method; but there are chapters in "Heather and Peat" which the foremost Scottish writers would be proud to own, and two of its characters are good enough to make an author's reputation.

Twice-Born Men

By HAROLD BEGBIE

A Footnote to Prof. James' "The Varieties of Religious Experience"

¶ Eight large editions have already followed the prediction of some of the greatest men of the times. No religious work of the present day has met with a more universal approval. Prof. James, Lyman Abbott, Dr. Parkhurst, Prof. Coe, President Hyde, Prof. Jackson, J. Wilbur Chapman, Charles G. Trumbull, are some of its enthusiastic endorsers.

SOULS IN ACTION

THE CRUCIBLE OF THE NEW LIFE

Studies of Christianity Militant

12mo, cloth, net $1.25

Not in many years has the church and the public been so stirred by any book as by TWICE-BORN MEN. This new book SOULS IN ACTION, amplifies and expands the narrative in many much-required ways for, where the earlier book emphasizes conversions of the sudden, violent, passionate type, the later book deals with the most interesting, the most striking, and the most conclusive cases of conversion, viz. : those in which a more gradual change of heart leads to the new birth.

Again, the older book dealt with the testimony of men of the humblest classes—the newer book concerns itself chiefly with women and in all cases the strata of society is above the depths.

NAYA

A Story of the Big Horn Country

By ELIZABETH EGGLESTON HINMAN

A splendid, exhilarating tale of the great southwest—full of the breath of the prairies, swift in movement, compelling in interest. Naya, the heroine, simply takes possession of the reader. The daughter of an Indian Princess and an English gentleman, she is a fascinating embodiment of the wild sweet freedom of the prairies and the tempering spirit of a colder clime. For charm and freshness, Naya has few equals. Her adventures are many, and the reader is interested from the first page to the very day she leaves for England—wonders about her even after the book is closed.

Mrs. Hinman, the author, is a new writer, but she brings with her a piquant freshness and power of interest that will soon make her a popular one.

NOTES IN SEASON.

DODD, MEAD & COMPANY have just published "Mother," a beautiful story of maternal love and sacrifice by Jules Eckert Goodman, a story made from the play which has appeared to crowded houses in New York, Chicago, St. Louis and Kansas City, and is billed to tour this country for the rest of this season, and right through to the end of next year.

"BAWBEE JOCK," which the Putnams have just published, is a love story in a Highland setting. Though there are in this story practically no misunderstandings or heartburnings, and the course of love is as undivergent as the flight of a bird to its nest and security, it is a romance suffused with sweetness, a little love idyll that might be the courtship of the first Adam and the first Eve. There is no expulsion out of this Paradise, though a brief eclipse of happiness does occur.

FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY have "The Peace Problem, the Task of the Twentieth Century," by Frederick Lynch, the director of the New York Peace Society, which Andrew Carnegie commends in no stinted terms. A new Scottish novelist of promise is A. D. Peat, who has written "Heather and Peat," in which there are chapters worthy of Crockett and "Tan Maclaren." Eight large editions have already been issued of Harold Begbie's "Twice-Born Men," which is really a footnote to Professor James's "The Varieties of Religious Experience."

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & COMPANY call attention to the following list of their books which have met with marked success: "Rules of the Game," by Stewart Edward White; "Rewards and Fairies," by Rudyard Kipling; "A Girl of the Limberlost," by Gene Stratton-Porter; "Freckles," by the same author; David Grayson's "Adventures in Friendship" and "Adventures in Contentment;" "The Caravaners," by the author of "Elizabeth and Her German Garden;" "The Unforeseen," by Mary Stewart Cutting; and "Queen Sheba's Ring," by H. Rider Haggard.

L. C. PAGE & COMPANY, Boston, announce the publication of a new novel by G. E. Theodore Roberts, "A Captain of Raleighs." The scenes for the most part are laid in the infant colony of Newfoundland at the time when Sir Walter Raleigh and other famous captains swept the seas for England. Elizabeth Duwaney, the heroine, is beautiful and vivacious enough to quite turn the heads of the several gallant gentlemen who struggle for her hand, and to keep the reader guessing until the very last page as to which suitor will find favor in her eyes.

IN "Souls in Action" (Doran) Harold Begbie has done, perhaps unconsciously, for Professor James's "The Will to Believe" what he did of deliberate intent for the latter's "Varieties of Religious Experience" in his earlier book, "Twice Born Men." The danger in following such a book as "Twice Born Men" has been skillfully avoided here—not only has Mr. Begbie chosen a wider field, but he has gone deeper and entered, if possible, further into the mental processes with which the changed life was accompanied. But the great value of this book is this: In the earlier narrative the subjects were all taken from a comparatively limited area geographically and an even more limited class socially, for he dealt exclusively with reformed drunkards reached by the Salvation Army. In this he deals with the cases reached by the West Central Mission of London, founded by Hugh Price Hughes and always associated with his name. And it includes all classes, from the proprietor of an influential newspaper to the lost woman, from the well-bred governess to the flower woman. It is an interesting book on the subject of conversion, experimentally considered.

Weekly Record of New Publications

The entry is transcribed from title page when the book is sent by publisher for record. Books received, unless of minor importance, are given descriptive annotation. Prices are added except when not supplied by publisher or obtainable only on specific request. The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederick; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. (4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Tt. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fe. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow. For books not received sizes are given in Roman numerals, 4°, 8°, etc.

The House of Serravalle. N. Y., J: Lane, '11. (Mr4) 448 p. D. $1.50. The author of "Casting of nets," "The just and the unjust," lays his scene in Rome. The Duke of Serravalle's secretary, a young Englishman, discovers that much intrigue is going on between the chaplain, the doctor and the lawyer of the locality and he suspects the Duke's life is in danger. The foiling of these discovered schemes forms the theme of the story.

Baldwin, Ja. Mark.

The individual and society; or, psychology and sociology. Bost., Badger, '11. (Mr4) 10+13-210 p. D. $1.50 n.

This book is a popular resumé of the scientific treatment of the interaction and inter-dependence of psychology and sociology. The psychologist has to do primarily with the individual, but in treating of the individual mind, is constantly forced to appeal to the sociologist for information regarding the group conditions to which each individual responds. The sociologist, dealing with the group, finds himself dependent upon the psychologist to inform him of the individual who incorporates himself in social institutions.

Buchanan, Thompson.

The second wife; frontispiece by Harrison Fisher; il. by W. W. Fawcett. N. Y., Watt, '11.] (Mr4) c. 318 p. D. $1.50.

The scene is laid in New York, the actors being some of the ultra-fashionable rich. John Chase's first wife divorced him to marry a richer man, Willa, the daughter, remaining with her father. When Willa falls in love with Jack Hendrix, her mother's stepson, and her father marries a young wife, a former fiancée of Jack's, things become very complicated indeed.

Butterfield, Kenyon Leech.

The country church and the rural problem; the Carew lectures at Hartford Theological Seminary, 1909. Chic., Univ. of Chic., '11. (Mr4) c. 9+153 p. D. $1 n.

Author is president of the Massachusetts Agricultural College and member of the commission on Country Life. He maintains that no influence can be stronger or more effective in advancing the interest of the rural population than that of the church, but the church to which he looks is not the narrow denominational or institutional body without a programme of work and of effort. He would have a church which, under the inspiration and guidance of the religious motive, makes appeal to the ideals of personal development and neighborhood advancement.

Chalmers, Stephen.

A prince of romance; il. by C. B. Falls. Bost., Small, Maynard, '11.] (Mr4) c. 340 p. front. D. $1.20.

By the author of "When love calls men to arms." The scene is laid in a small Scottish town in the year 1815. The inhabitants are still dreaming of Prince Charlie, though he has been dead many years, when a ship is wrecked and one man is washed ashore who bears a wonderful resemblance to the young Pretender. The village rallies to his standard, believing he is a Stuart, and the rising brings the redcoats about their ears. Two love stories run through the tale, which is full of swift movement, adventures and escapes.

Chapin, Howard Millar.

Murthy's cottage; a biographical dictionary of cats, in literature. [Providence, R. I., H. M. Chapin,] '11. (Mr4) c. 8 p. il. 8°, 25 c.

Chesterton, Gilbert Keith.

Alarms and discursions. N. Y., Dodd, Mead, '11. (Mr4) c. 8+301 p. D. $1.50 n.

Essays which are full of wit and sprightliness, while containing grains of truth sugar-coated, as it were. Some of the titles are: The fading fireworks; On gargoyles; The surrender of a Cockney; A criminal head; The wrath of the roses; Dukes; The anarchist; How I found the superman; The three kinds of men; The sentimentalist; The chorus; A romance of the marshes, etc.

Cheyne, Rev. T. Kelly.

The two religions of Israel; with re-examination of the prophetic narratives and utterances. [N. Y., Macmillan, '11.] (Mr4) 15+428 p. D. $4 n.

The two religions are the belief in magic, which was constantly being strengthened by the Israelites' contact with the surrounding nations, and the belief in something higher and better, the Jehovah and Messianic ideas. Dr. Cheyne examines the different books of the Old Testament to show the existence of these two forms of religion. He is emeritus professor of interpretation of Holy Scripture at Oxford. Index.

Childe-Pemberton, W: Shakespeare.

The romance of Princess Amelia, daughter of George III., (1783-1810,) including extracts from private and unpublished papers. N. Y., J: Lane, '11. (Mr4) 311 p. ports. O. $5 n.

Princess Amelia was fifteenth and youngest child of George III. and Queen Charlotte. She was born in 1783 and died in 1810. This book gives the story of her life and the romance of her love for General Charles Fitz Roy, which has been the cause of scandal being attached to her memory. Letters and documents never before published are quoted in this volume which prove that the Princess was a most unhappy but absolutely innocent woman.

Constitution and canons for the government of the Protestant Episcopal church in the United States of America, adopted in general conventions, 1789-1910. N. Y., [H. Anstice, 281 Fourth Ave.,] '10, '11.] (Mr4) c. 163 p. 8°, 75 c.

Costello, Pierre.

A sinner in Israel; a romance of modern Jewish life. N. Y., J: Lane, '11. (Mr4) 407 p. D. $1.50.

A story of a boy brought up to believe his parentage mostly Jewish. He finds that he is a Christian and entirely English and gradually leaves Judaism. In the end he finds his right place in the world, discovers his father among the royalty and he and his Jewish wife Hannah, occupy their high positions with happiness. Many of the old Jewish customs are described and praised.

Creelman, Ja.

Diaz: master of Mexico. N. Y., Appleton, '11. (Mr4) c. 7+441 p. pls. ports. O. $2 n.

Diaz has had perhaps the most remarkable career of any ruler of the present day. The author has spent much time in the Republic of Mexico which its president rules with such iron hand. The book gives chief events in the life of Diaz and describes the evolution of the Mexico of 1848 into the Mexico of the present. Aims to explain this great Latin-American leader from his brilliant fighting youth to his white old age, in which age he is the acknowledged master of progress. The financial statements are in Mexican currency. The writer knows Diaz well.

Cutten, G: Barton.

Three thousand years of mental healing. N. Y., Scribner, '11. (Mr4) c. 8+318 p. O. $1.50 n.

A book of curious interest. The curative influence of mind over matter is now far more systematically practiced than it has ever been before. Dr. Cutten gives the history of this movement as practiced both independent of and associated with religion. A record of relics, talismans, amulets, charms, ending with the various healers of to-day is the result. The term mental healing is used in its broadest possible sense, that is, any cure brought about by the effect of mind over the body regardless of whether the power back of the cure is supposed to be deity, demons, other human beings, or the individual's own mind. Author is president of Acadia College, Wolfville, Nova Scotia.

Dandridge, Mrs. Danske Bedinger.

American prisoners of the revolution. [Shepherdstown, W. Va., D. Dandridge,] '11. (Mr4) c. 9+504 p. front. 8°, $3.

Deeping, G: Warwick.

The lame Englishman: with a front. by A. C. Michael. N. Y., Cassell, '11. (Mr4) 368 p. D. $1.20 n.

The author knows Rome. This is of Rome in the days of Garibaldi in the sixties. Gives a fine picture of this great patriot who fought so hard to unify Italy and free it from church rule. The plot is a surprise.

Delbridge, C: Lomax.

Eastman, C: Alex., M.D., ["Ohiyesa"]

The soul of the Indian; an interpretation. Bost., Houghton Mifflin, '11. (Mr4) c. 13+170 p. front. D. $1 n.

Dr. Eastman is himself an Indian, a Sioux. In this book he endeavors to show the true Indian free from the prejudices and legends which prevail in the minds of most white men. It is the religious life of the typical American Indian before he knew the white man that is treated of. The author says that if the Indian believes in these deep matters, he does not speak of them and when he ceases to believe he speaks slightly and inaccurately, and that most accounts have been made during the transition period when the old beliefs were passing away and therefore little real information on the subject has been published.

Emmet, T: Addis, M.D.

Incidents of my life, professional, literary, social, with services in cause of Ireland; with 27 illustrations. N. Y., Putnam, '11. (Mr4) c. 30+480 p. (4 p. bibl.) pls. pors. Q. $6. (750 copies.)

Dr. Emmet was born May 29, 1828, at the University of Virginia. He was descended from the Emmet family of Irish patriots, his grandfather having suffered several years' imprisonment before settling in New York. Dr. Emmet was associated with Dr. Marion Sims in the Woman's Hospital of New York, and during his forty-five years' connection with the institution did much for the advancement of scientific treatment of that branch of medicine and surgery. He was also closely connected with the Irish cause in America, being president of the Irish Federation of America during its term of existence. His memoirs contain much of interest concerning famous people at home and abroad, and also of New York City of the past.

The man with the scar. Bost., Badger, '11. (Mr4) c. '10. 244 p. front. D. $1.50.

Christian Science is the motive of this story, the scene of which is laid in Arizona and the Cumberland Mountains of Tennessee. A conspiracy to secure by fraud some valuable lands from the heroine and its frustration by the "man with the scar" make the plot. All the chief characters are believers in Mrs. Eddy's teaching and put their belief in practice, and are enabled to overcome all their troubles, whether physical or financial.

Brahms; with 12 illustrations. N. Y., J: Lane, '11. (Mr4) 11+263 p. O. (New library of music ser.) $2.50 n.

Although the author's preface takes the form of a note on enthusiasm, apparently excusing and explaining his own attitude toward the subject of this volume he seems to have succeeded in giving a balanced and interesting account of the man and his work. Beginning with a few pages of biography, Brahms' contemporaries, his characteristics and art, his pianoforte works, concerted music, orchestral work and songs are all considered in separate chapters. A list of his compositions is given, and a list of first lines and titles. Index.

Fyvie, J:

Noble dames and notable men of the Georgian era. N. Y., J: Lane, '11. (Mr4) 6+255 p. pors. O. $3.50 n.

The author has selected her subjects because they all exhibit some peculiarity or quaintness or eccentricity, of mind or behavior, such as would have caused men of their day to dub them "characters." They are Lady Mary Coke, 1726-1811 (a grande dame); Sir Henry Bate Dudley, Bart. 1745-1824 (a journalistic parson); Countess of Strathmore, 1749-1800 (a hunted heiress); Bamfylde-Moor Carew, 1693-1758 (a professional beggar); Elizabeth, Lady Holland, 1770-1845 (a unique hostess); Abraham Tucker, 1705-1774 (a metaphysical humorist).

Gade, J: Allyn.

Cathedrals of Spain. Bost., Houghton Mifflin, '11. (Mr4) c. 14+279 p. pls. O. $5 n.

In the present volume Mr. Gade, a practicing architect in New York, has given the results of a recent close and enthusiastic study of the cathedrals of Avila, Burgos, Salamanca (the elder and the younger), Leon, Toledo, Segovia, Seville, and Granada. The cathedrals selected cover nearly all periods of Gothic art, as interpreted in Spain, as well as the earlier Romanesque and succeeding Renaissance, with which the Gothic was mingled. For all young, as well as more advanced students of architecture, the book gives a thorough insight into church-building in Spain. Aside from the cathedrals which he describes, the author sketches the traditions of the city which created the building, and the temperament and ideals of its inhabitants. The illustrations are reproductions of fine photographs.

Old English instruments of music; their history and character; with an appendix and a list of books of reference. Chic., McClurg, '11. (Mr4) 25+327 p. pls. O. $2.50 n.

This work deals with the history of the bygone instruments of the English people. The copious illustrations are selected from mediæval illuminations and carvings by English artists and from photographs of existing specimens. The characters of the instruments as well as their literary associations are interestingly reviewed. In the appendix are detailed chronological data, a scheme of classification, and a complete catalogue of the collection of Henry VIII. Index.

Goodman, Jules Eckert.

Mother; with il. by J. Rae. N. Y., Dodd, Mead, '11. (Mr4) c. '10-'11. 322 p. D. $1.20 n.

The story of Mrs. Wetherill from the time she is left a widow with six children until after many trials they are all settled. The oldest boy marries an actress, and for four years sees nothing of his mother and the rest of the family, merely demanding more and more money from the estate to spend on his wife and his own pleasures. At last he forges his mother's name on a note, which the family unite to meet. His wife, finding he has nothing left and thinking disgrace threatens, leaves him and he returns to his mother's home just in time to save his brother from a similar mistake. The mother's love and devotion to her children never fails, and at last brings them all to a safe anchorage.

The lass with the delicate air. N. Y., J. Lane, '11. (Mr4) 352 p. D. $1.50.

The author of "Mrs. Gramercy Park" writes another entertaining novel. The scene is laid in a London lodging house where Miss Benny Miller wins everyone's hearts by her "delicate air." Mrs. Hicks, made proud by a dramatic parentage, keeps the house and she and her family form a part of the story. Mr. Fitzgerald, after hunting a long time for lodgings, at last takes rooms with Mrs. Hicks. He falls in love with Benny, marries her, but on account of a drug habit which has mastered him he commits suicide. Benny is happily married at last in Paris, and we leave the delighted Hicks with a grandchild.

Reminiscences of the Geneva Tribunal of Arbitration, 1872: The Alabama claims. Bost., Houghton Mifflin, '11. (Mr4) c. 16+450 p. O. $2 n.

The author was Secretary to Caleb Cushing, senior American Counsel during the work of the Tribunal of Arbitration for the settlement of the "Alabama claims" against Great Britain held at Geneva, Switzerland, in 1872. Great Britain paid $15,500,000 and this great international drama established laws of neutrality that have been found practicable for forty years. The author has written a fair, earnest history of this "splendid victory for peace."

Hicks, Seymour.

Seymour Hicks: 24 years of an actor's life by himself. N. Y., J: Lane, '11. (Mr4) 321 p. por. D. $1.25 n.

The author of these memoirs claims two reasons for writing them, the hope of advertisement and because it gives an opportunity to say a great deal about other people. Mr. Hicks was born in 1871 on the Isle of Jersey, a place he says is "full of poor ladies and gentlemen." The "absence of duty on tobacco and brandy must have proved the attraction," but everything else was cheap, too, it was just the place for retired army officers like his father. He relates incidents of Lily Langtry, the Kendals, Beerbohm Tree, Augustin Daly and his company, Edmund Kean, Macready, etc.

Hinkson, Mrs. Katharine Tynan, [formerly Katharine Tynan.]

Princess Katharine. N. Y., Duffield, '11. (Mr4) c. '10. 331 p. D. $1.20 n.

The heroine was only seven when her pretty Irish mother married a law clerk who had been accustomed to take his luncheon in her confectioner's shop. The marriage was foolish, but the step-father planned to get the girl away from her surroundings and she was sent to boarding-school. She keeps a worship for her mother and makes her own picture of the home she will return to. She returns, finds all dilapidated, her mother often drinking too much and all neighbors ignorant and careless. She takes charge, loves her mother into a better life and finds she is connected with the interests of the old family of Lynches of Lynch Hall. She is indeed a princess in mind and spirit.

Protestant thought before Kant. N. Y., Scribner, '11. (Mr4) 261 p. D. 75 c. n.

Author is professor of church history in the Union Theological Seminary, New York City. Attempts to make clear the thought of the world when Kant began his epoch-making labors in philosophy and religion. Pietism and Rationalism were the two great forces disputing the field throughout the larger part of the Protestant world. The book traces the work of Martin Luther, Zwingli, Melancthon, Calvin, and studies the English Reformation, the New England theology, the various sects of Anabaptists, Socinians, German priests, etc. The bibliographical material is grouped under chapters. A terse resumé of Protestant thought till Kant, Herder, Coleridge, Jacobi, etc., treated the various theories with modern sympathies.

The lion's skin; a romance; il. by Edm. Frederick. N. Y., Appleton, '11. (Mr4) c. 339 p. D. $1.25 n.

By the author of "Arms and the maid," etc. England in 1720 is the scene of this story. Justin Caryll goes to England as the agent of the Old Pretender. He is sent by Sir Richard Everard, who has brought him up, and who has educated the young man to revenge the wrong done his mother by his father, Lord Ostermore. Caryll arrives in England just in time to rescue his father's ward from a mock-marriage with his half-brother. A lucky chance puts him in possession of his mother's marriage record which proves him to be the real heir to the title and his half-brother the nameless outcast. What he does with these proofs make the surprising climax.

Captivating Mary Carstairs. Bost., Small, Maynard, ['11.] (Mr4) c. 8+346 p. front. D. $1.30 n.

Elbert Carstairs, an elderly New Yorker, has been separated from his wife for twelve years, but they have remained friends. Mrs. Carstairs has their child Mary, who absolutely refuses to visit her father in spite of her mother's urging. Carstairs persuades his young friend Lawrence Varney to undertake the kidnapping of the girl under the impression she is a child of twelve. He goes on Carstairs's yacht, to the small Hudson River town where Mary lives, and in spite of his determination to make his visit as unobtrusive as possible, he no sooner lands than he is whirled into a series of adventures, involving him in a strenuous fight with an unscrupulous political ring. Affairs are further complicated by Varney's resemblance to Ferris Stanhope, a novelist, who formerly lived in the town and who had incurred the lasting hatred of the inhabitants by his treatment of a poor girl there.

Socialism; a critical analysis. Bost., Houghton Mifflin, '11. (Mr4) c. 9+329 p. (9½ p. bibl.) O. (Hart, Schaffner and Marx prize essays in economics.) $1.50 n.

This study is an attempt at an analysis and critical estimate of the more significant contributions made to Socialist theory and practice during the past century. Chief stress is laid on Marxian Socialism, although several chapters are devoted to the earlier Utopian forms and to present-day English developments. Socialism is considered under four main aspects—its indictment, its analysis of the capitalist system, its constructive proposals, and its plans of campaign for their realization. Dr. Skelton is Sir John A. Macdonald, professor of political science, Queen's University, Kingston, Canada.

Trent, Paul.

The vow; a novel; with front. in color by J. Rae. N. Y., Stokes, ['11.] (Mr4) c. 341 p. D. $1.25 n.

John Gaunt, a captain of finance, finds only one greater affection in his life than his love of acquiring money. When his wife lies ill and is left by the specialist for a dying woman, John Gaunt makes a vow in a prayer that he will right anything which he has done which was wrong, and he will gain money in the future only in the most scrupulous way. His wife's life is spared and he begins financing on the new lines. Most of his money has been made in rubber and involves the abuses in the Congo still said to exist. The author's knowledge of this subject was obtained when he practiced law in the Gold Coast Colony, so the book has authentic foundation for its statements. The scene is laid in England.

Mr. Wellman has made several journeys to the North, his most famous being his attempt to reach the pole in an airship. He here describes his trips with the many adventures attending them, giving pictures of hunting and travel in the North. Part of the book is devoted to a description of the construction of the airship "America" and the endeavor to fly to Europe in it which took place last year.

Wells, Carolyn.

The gold bag; with a front. by G. W. Barratt. Phil., Lippincott, '11. (Mr4) c. '10-'11. 333 p. D. $1.20 n.

A murder mystery the clue to which seems to be a gold mesh bag is the theme of this story. Joseph Crawford is shot, late at night, in his own library. All the evidence points first to his niece, who lives with him, and then to her fiancé, his secretary. The narrative is told in the first person by the young detective engaged to solve the mystery who falls in love with the niece. The solution is most surprising and is only discovered on the last pages of the book.

Wetmore, Monroe Nichols, comp.

Index verborum Vergilianus. New Haven, Ct., Yale Univ. Press, '11. (Mr4) c. 10+554 p. O. $4 n.

A complete word index to the acknowledged works of Vergil, the "Eclogues," the "Georgics" and the "Æneid," and to the poems usually included in the "Appendix Vergiliana." Compiler is assistant professor of Latin in Williams College.

Wiggin, Kate Douglas Smith, [now Mrs. G. Riggs,] and others.

Robinetta. Bost., Houghton Mifflin, ['11.] (Mr4) c. '10-'11. 6+330 p. front. D. $1.10 n. Robinetta, a widow at 22, looks up her English relatives, her mother having eloped with an American architect, and the breach never having been made good. Robinetta especially desires to visit an old nurse of her mother's of whom she had heard all her life. The English aunt, her grandson and her icy companion and the family lawyer play the parts at the will of the four authors, who well hide the meeting points of their individual work. The plot turns on the selling out of the poor old nurse, who occupies a cottage on the family estate, impoverished to guard the family jewels for the grandson.

Woolston, Rev. Clarence Herb.

Seeing truth; a book of object lessons with magical and mechanical effects. Phil., Praise Pub., ['11.] (Mr4) c. '10. 207 p. il. pls. pors. diagrs., D. 75 c.

The author feeling the importance of religious instruction for children has chosen an original way of illustrating Biblical truths. He has studied magic under "Thurston the Great," and by the aid of slight of hand tricks, and other simplified principles of magic has given them a meaning so they have become teachers of morals and religion. This book contains these illustrations. J. Wilbur Chapman and A. L. Phillips write prefaces of appreciation as to the methods employed.

The Publishers' Weekly

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT

March 4, 1911

The editor is not responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

Publishers should send books promptly for weekly record and descriptive annotation, if possible in advance of publication. The Record of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

NET FICTION—THE FINISH OF THE CAMPAIGN.

THE conclusion of the three years' campaign for net fiction may be fairly said to be in sight, if we may judge from the returns so far in, namely the spring announcements of the various publishers now at hand.

Last fall, when nearly one-half the fiction (47 per cent., to be exact) was published net, THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY called the prospect a most "encouraging" one for the advocates of reform. What can be said now when that percentage has risen from 47 to 73 per cent.? Even this percentage is hardly indicative of the trend. The John Lane Company, for instance, announce twenty-five novels this spring, of which but three are net. With this single house's list reversed the percentage of net fiction would have been 92 per cent.

As before, "fiction" in this tabulation means new adult fiction of approximately the "$1.50" grade (that is excluding little booklet fiction retailing at 50 cents or less); and so far but twenty-five publishers have submitted lists for analysis, as against thirty-five last fall. The lists to be added will, however, undoubtedly raise the percentage of net fiction; and changes in listing, where present prices are tentative or provisional, will almost as certainly be in the net direction. Indeed, it will not be surprising if a more thorough analysis of the season's fiction a month hence shows a full 90 per cent net.

Again it is of interest to know what net price for fiction is the consensus. Of 160 net titles so far announced those at $1.20 lead again, 66, or 42 per cent., this spring, as against 43 per cent. last fall. $1.35, however, which showed 21 per cent. last fall, has dropped to 11 per cent. There are, on the other hand, 48, or 31 per cent., at $1.25, as compared with 12 per cent. at this price last fall. Evidently there is a perceptible movement against too high a net price; there is still, however, an encouraging variety in price. Complete table:

Price.	No. of titles.
	Fall.	Spring.
	1910	1911
$1.00 net.....	12	10
$1.10 ".....	..	1
$1.15 ".....	1	1
$1.20 ".....	36	66
$1.25 ".....	10	48
$1.30 ".....	4	15
$1.35 ".....	18	15
$1.40 ".....	1	1
$1.50 ".....	2	4

Twelve publishers this fall—Cassell, Century, Dodd Mead, Doran, Duffield, Dutton, Lippincott, Houghton Mifflin, McClurg, Stokes, Sturgis & Walton, and Wessels & Bissell—are publishing all their fiction net, besides several yet to be heard from. On the other hand, whereas ten publishers last fall published all their fiction regular, there seems to be one, Dillingham, now doing so. Furthermore, of the publishers who announce some fiction net and some regular, Appleton, Baker & Taylor, Bobbs-Merrill, Doubleday, Page, and Scribner have practically all their fiction net.

It must be remembered that several publishers, with every desire to make all their fiction net, are hampered by long term contracts with certain authors, some of which do not expire for a year or more. In this case, of course, the proper procedure is to intercede, not with the publisher—who may be powerless to act—but with the author direct, in an endeavor to convince him of the essential justice and advantage of the net system.

THE "rider" on the Postal Appropriation Bill increasing second class postage on the advertising sheets of magazines, added by the Senate Committee, has wisely been dropped from the bill, as otherwise it would have been impossible to carry through the appropriation bill during the present Congress. The President has many times privately and now in a forcible response to a delegation of magazine publishers, of which Mr. Graham C. Patterson, of the Pacific Monthly, was spokesman, made clear his fixed determination to remedy what he considers an injustice by making some increase in second class rates. His straightforward talk is given in full elsewhere. The recent campaign has been unfortunate on both sides, not least on the part of the periodical publishers, who in their advertisements have gone far beyond the proprieties. It will be well if periodical publishers would now accept notice that something is to be done, and co-operate in finding what is the best and least harmful way of doing it. We have often pointed out that the postal conference of thirty years ago with publishers and others adopted a very useful method; and if a committee, not too large, which should include a representation of "reasonable" publishers as well as postal authorities, could be appointed, it might recommend to Congress for the December session some practicable plan, on the lines suggested by Mr. Doubleday, and on others often advocated in this journal. Attention should be given by book publishers to the suggestion of Mr. Brett in the letter printed last week.

NET FICTION AND THE LIBRARIES.

By JAMES I. WYER, Director of the New York State Library and President of the American Library Association.

THE fact that half the fall fiction of 1910 was published net and that ten publishers, including Houghton and Putnam, published all their fiction titles net, is of keen interest to libraries. There seems to have been no corporate or organized sponsor for the net fiction campaign, though doubtless it is not wholly spontaneous. The reasons given, whenever any are offered, are improvement of the booktrade and the status of the retailer and the increased cost of production. Should they involve as a considerable, and to librarians a very important, corollary, the material increase in the price of fiction to libraries? The first of these reasons is perhaps plausible. But can not the booktrade be improved and the retailer once more rehabilitated without bringing library prices into the matter at all? Why, indeed, does the retailer require periodical rehabilitation? And why, if he does, must libraries contribute so substantially to accomplish it? Eight years ago, in the face of explicit assurance from the publishers that the net price system would not increase the cost of books to libraries, but would merely operate to maintain the retail price, the libraries of the country found their book bills increased from 15 to 20 per cent. If this generous, though enforced, contribution has not yet rehabilitated the retailer, may not libraries be pardoned for believing that it has gone, where indeed they have from the first suspected it was going, into the pockets of the publishers.

The increased cost of production does not seem so good a reason. The increased cost of production falls upon the manufacturers, that is, the publishers. If there has been such an increase it would seem that they would raise the wholesale price of fiction to the dealer, which many dealers distinctly deny has been done. Libraries are not disposed to dispute the contention that the condition of the retailer should be improved; neither are they disposed to deny some increase in cost of manufacture. They admit, of course, that the publishers have a perfect right to set any price upon their wares, and that the decision as to whether libraries shall pay the price fixed is with the libraries themselves. All this being true, however, it seems entirely proper to state the case as it appears to libraries, with such observations as seem to them pertinent and weighty.

The apparently just causes for complaint by libraries were admirably stated by the Committee on Bookbuying of the American Library Association in a recent report of the Council of that body, as follows: "It seems to this committee that the libraries have a just cause for complaint in the very serious reduction in discount allowed them, a reduction which in effect involves a greater increase in cost of fiction to libraries than to the individual purchaser of single copies. . . . It is palpably inequitable that the libraries, being mainly buyers in bulk if not in quantity, placing them on an equal basis with wholesale purchasers, should be mulcted in however just a cause, in an amount greater than, or nearly as great as, the patron of the retailers, for whose benefit this movement has been inaugurated. If libraries are not wholesale purchasers, they are at least entitled to more consideration than retail purchasers, and the nominal discount of 10 per cent. by no means fairly represents the difference. It is doubtful if it represents the true difference in actual selling cost between handling individual sales and the orders of libraries." If the library discount on net fiction were 15 or 20 per cent., and the new net prices were uniformly maintained at a figure sufficiently below the old long price of $1.50 to persuade libraries that the publishers were playing fair in fixing the net prices, there would probably be little or no feeling among libraries in the question of net fiction. The new net prices, however, are neither uniform (even when the difference in matter in different books is considered), nor so low as to persuade librarians that the net fiction movement is not to repeat the manifest injustices and inequalities which attended the original net price movement of eight years ago.

There are other reasons, too, which make an increased price for fiction less warranted than an increased price eight years ago for non-fiction. Non-fiction represents the solid, permanent literature, the sort that is worth money, the sort that when bought forms the solid, worthy part of any library. Is there any similar warrant of increasing the price of a class of books so ephemeral, so dubious in quality, so devoid of promise of lasting worth as is the current fiction now served out to readers by American publishers, two-thirds of which could be tossed into the fire immediately on its coming from the press, with no word of protest from any American library.

The remarkable success of the English seven-penny novels by first-class authors, most of them of recent date, tastefully bound in cloth, excellent in typography, would seem to justify librarians here for doubting that such an increase of price as is proposed is necessary to enable novels to be published at a fair profit for both seller and publisher and a substantial royalty for the author. Even the difference in wages, cost of living, and the compensation of authors (if there be any difference here) scarcely explain the disparity between sevenpence and the cheapest, satisfactory bound form in which current fiction has yet been offered in America.

There are not wanting librarians who question the wisdom or desirability of the public library undertaking, as so large a part of its work, to supply to its patrons such vast quantities of ephemeral reading matter. Several of the largest public libraries in the country buy relatively few titles of the new novels, trying to select the best and duplicating these relatively few titles largely.

When net prices were first broached eight years ago, many libraries found that titles which seemed desirable when fresh, did not seem so necessary at the end of a year; and in so far as it tended to more deliberation in bookbuying, the net price system was not an unmixed evil to libraries. Are not the arguments for delay, or perhaps for total abstention, far stronger and more reasonable in the case of net fiction than non-fiction? Library reports are filled with boasts of the reduced per cent. of fiction circulation statistics. It seems on all hands to be thought a worthy achievement to cut the circulation of this class of books. Does not net fiction offer several good excuses for going still further in this direction?

LIBRARY COUNCIL DISCUSSES NET FICTION.

At the recent mid-winter meeting in Chicago of the Council of the American Library Association net fiction, in its library relations, was discussed at some length. The discussion was opened by the reading of a report made by Carl B. Roden on behalf of the Committee on Bookbuying. Mr. Roden said in part: "From replies to letters addressed by the chairman of this committee, Walter L. Brown, of Buffalo, to a number of publishers the reasons for that move appear to be the familiar ones, namely, the necessity of protecting the retail dealer from indiscriminate price-cutting, and the increase in the cost of materials. The latter reason leads to the conclusion that the manufacturers upon whom the increase in the cost of materials falls, i.e., the publishers, have raised the wholesale price of fiction to the dealer, and this is true in the case of at least two publishers, while it is distinctly denied by others. This may, and probably does, represent a difference in policy. In the meantime the new fiction is being issued at retail prices ranging from $1 and $1.10 to $1.35, $1.40, and even $1.50, all net, the variations being apparently accounted for by the size and physical characteristics of each book. It seems probable the $1.35 net will eventually be the prevailing price—unless a return to the old figure of $1.50 will follow, without the old discount. At this price of $1.35 the new novels cost the libraries $1.21½ net, a very material advance over our former rate, which varied downward from $1.08.

"Now, while we may have no disposition to dispute the contention that the condition of the retailer is in dire need of improvement, and while we are also disposed not to dispute the allegations as to the increase in cost of manufacture, yet it seems to this committee that the libraries have just cause for complaint in the very serious reduction in discount allowed them; a reduction which in effect involves a greater increase in cost of fiction to libraries than to the individual purchaser of single copies, for whom the whole machinery of the retail trade has to be maintained. It is palpably inequitable that the libraries, being mainly buyers in bulk, if not in quantities, placing them on an equal basis with wholesale purchasers, should be mulcted, in however just a cause, in an amount greater than, or nearly as great as, the patron of the retailers for whose benefit this movement has been inaugurated. If libraries are not wholesale purchasers, they are at least entitled to more consideration than retail purchasers, and the nominal discount of 10 per cent. by no means fairly represents the difference. It is doubtful if it represents the true difference in actual selling cost between handling individual sales and the orders of libraries.

"Moreover, I am convinced that this 10 per cent. discount was not determined upon as the result of any careful, scientific effort to arrive at a true and fair basis of differentiation, and that if we can get a patient hearing we have a good chance of bettering that rate, even if we cannot hope to return to the old basis, which, perhaps, we have no right, in view of all the conditions, to expect. And I am further convinced that the booksellers themselves, with whom, rather than with the publishers, the libraries deal, were not consulted in the fixing of the library discount, and are far from certain that 10 per cent. represents a fair or practical margin. I believe that if we could get an expression of opinion from the dealers, we should find that they would agree that 15 per cent., or even 16⅔ per cent., would seem to them a far juster rate, and one which would be acceptable to them.

"My recommendation, therefore, which I venture to offer as the report of the committee, since from correspondence I am led to believe that the two other members, although not present, agree with these conclusions, is as follows: That the Bookbuying Committee be instructed to endeavor to secure an expression of opinion from booksellers doing business with libraries as to the proper and practicable discount which ought to be allowed to libraries on purchase of new net fiction."

An informal discussion followed Mr. Roden's report, and several speakers expressed the opinion that they believed the increased price of net fiction was not benefiting materially the retail bookseller. Purd B. Wright said he believed that booksellers were making less money on the $1.50 net fiction rules than formerly, and that the publishers were the ones who were profiting by the new rules regarding net fiction.

An extract from a letter written by Miss Cornelia Marvin regarding fiction in libraries was read as follows:

"I wish to send an emphatic protest against the proposition to have the public library discontinue to any extent its purchase of wholesome fiction. We all believe that public libraries are almost as important in offering wholesome recreation as in their educational work, and as each year increases the extent of questionable recreation for both old and young, I believe we ought not to consider lessening the library supply of decent fiction. Any one who has watched the crowds at moving-picture shows must understand the very general desire to be amused, and I personally believe that most tax payers are just as willing to support libraries for this purpose as for any other, and that by cutting off the supply of fiction, we should cut off numbers of readers who are entitled to library service.

"I have a great sympathy with the librarians who wish to buy fiction for less money, and I believe that it should be bought for less, as books should not be used so long and circulated in the filthy condition in which public library fiction is generally found. I think that libraries have not kept pace with general sanitary progress, and that it would be much better to have a large supply of inexpensive editions of fiction to be very frequently renewed, rather than to try to bind so as to make them indestructible, the more expensive volumes of new fiction.

"If you think this point of view has anything to commend it, I hope you will present it some time during the discussion.

"I also wish to say that I should dislike to see anything that is in the nature of a boycott upon publishers of net fiction.

"Very sincerely yours,
(Signed) CORNELIA MARVIN."

HOUGHTON MIFFLIN ON THE POSITION OF THE LIBRARIES.

THE following letter of Houghton Mifflin Company, relative to the report of the A. L. A. Council Committee on Bookbuying quoted above, is self-explanatory. It seems an unusually fair and clear statement of the publishers' position regarding net fiction, especially in its library aspect:

BOSTON, February 17, 1911.
Editor Public Libraries,
156 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

DEAR SIR: In your issue for February, in the report of the midwinter meetings of the A. L. A. Council, we notice a report of the Committee on Bookbuying in reference to net fiction. We regret to find in this report some statements which seem to us misleading, and which we feel should be corrected.

Alluding to the discount to libraries the report says that the 10 per cent. discount "was not fixed as the result of a careful, scientific effort to arrive at a fair basis of differentiation, and that the booksellers themselves, with whom we deal, were not consulted." If you will refer to the discussions on this subject in the Booksellers' Association, as reported in THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY during the past two years, and also refer to the communications of individual booksellers in the same periodical, we think you will find that this rate was adopted not only at the special request of the booksellers, but because they held that the conditions of the trade made this limited discount absolutely necessary for them, and that this decision was reached after a most careful and scientific study of the cost of doing business. We are glad to see that the A. L. A. has appointed a committee to confer with the booksellers, as we feel sure that it will be found that the facts do not justify the statement which we have quoted.

It will also be found that while the net system has been in operation for about ten years, the publishers have refrained from including fiction until recently, and that they are now including it at the urgent request of the booksellers, a request which we feel the conditions of the business make necessary. Perhaps we may be pardoned for saying that one of the causes for the demoralization in the book trade which led to the adoption of the net system was the competition for the library business, which had brought the prices at which books were sold to libraries down to a point where the business was done at an absolute loss.

We also note that in the discussion following the reading of the committee's report a speaker said "he believed that the booksellers were making less money on the $1.50 net fiction rules than formerly, and that the publishers were the ones who were profiting by the new rules regarding net fiction." It seems almost unnecessary to reply to this statement, and yet it may be accepted as correct and lead to further misunderstanding. Under the old system a novel published at $1.50 we sold at wholesale (except in quantities) at 90 c., and it was retailed at from $1.08 to $1.20 east of the Rocky Mountains, according to localities; $1.15 is perhaps a fair average price. On the other hand, a novel published at $1.35 net we also wholesale at 90 c.; therefore, it is not difficult to see which is the most profitable for the retail bookseller and which method means a loss to him after he has deducted the cost of doing his business. Further, as we wholesale our $1.35 net novels at exactly the same price which we formerly sold the $1.50 books, the return to us is precisely the same. On novels priced at $1.25 net and $1.20 net, most of which have formerly been published at $1.50, our returns are proportionately less. It is most unfortunate that so erroneous a statement in regard to profit as that which we have mentioned should have been given wide circulation, and it certainly is most unjust to the publishers.

We assure you that we sympathize with the libraries in their desire to obtain their books at as low a price as possible, but we feel that they have not fully realized the position of the bookseller to-day, and how serious a matter it will be for libraries, authors, the public in general, in short, for all interested in good literature, if the gradual extinction of the bookseller continues in the future as we have seen it going on during the past few years. To prevent this he must have a living profit.

Yours very truly,
HOUGHTON MIFFLIN CO.

SECOND CLASS RATE INCREASE KILLED.

MAGAZINE publishers who are opposing the proposal of Postmaster-General Hitchcock to increase the rate of postage on the advertising matter in their publications were informed Thursday that they had won their point so far as the present session of Congress was concerned. Because of the pressure of business in the Senate and the fear of a filibuster by friends of the magazines, the provision for the increase has been omitted from the Post Office Appropriation bill as reported.

President Taft, however, has announced that he intends to keep up his fight to the end of his term if he does not win it before.

A delegation of periodical publishers told the President Wednesday that the magazines were not responsible for the postal deficit, and that if it could be demonstrated that they were they would cheerfully submit to an increase in postage. All they wanted was a thorough investigation of the whole.

"You say you want an investigation," retorted the President. "Why, the Government of the United States has spent $250,000 to make an investigation. There was a hearing before the committee a year ago. It is nearly two years since I made a recommendation about this business. A year ago there was a hearing before the committee, and Mr. Wilder, who represented Butterick's magazine, made an answer which, as I understand it, was accepted by the Association of Periodicals as their answer. The reply of the post office showed it to be a very insufficient answer.

"There has been a very thorough investigation by the men who know most about it in the Post Office Department, and I must follow their recommendation because I believe it to be well founded. I am so certain that the Post Office Department has no prejudice in the slightest that I would be willing, but for continuous delays, to submit the issue again to anybody who is unprejudiced and who has intelligence enough and skill enough and experience enough to look into the matter. A delay is always a victory for those who are seeking to avoid a payment of what is due the Government.

"We are not engaged, ought not to be engaged, in running a Government that puts the burden on one class and relieves from it another. The question we have to decide is whether there is a burden growing out of second-class mail and how to decrease the burden.

"There has been a suggestion in those friendly advertisements that I have seen that the notion of Mr. Hitchcock and myself is to get even with somebody. Well, a man who has ordinary common sense does not seek the hostility and the continued hostility of an interest as powerful as the magazines. He only goes into a fight of this kind from a sense of duty. I am going ahead as long as I am in office to bring about a proper adjustment of this matter. It may be defeated this time, but I am going on as long as I have any power, and you gentlemen had better make up your minds that it is in your interest as well as in the interest of the Government to have this matter settled.

"You may be able to defeat the present proposal. These things are frequently capable of defeat for a time. But as long as I have any power I am going to recommend the consideration of this question until it is settled. It is not in the slightest spirit of hostility to the magazines that I have made this recommendation, but because I am responsible for the government of the United States and the administration of it, and am bound to call the attention of Congress to the expenditure of revenue and the failures of receipts, when those receipts are not such as they ought to be, because some class is getting the benefit of something for nothing from the Government.

"This agitation has brought out methods that I doubt if you all approve. Certainly there are quite a number of gentlemen who are interested in the same line of business as you are who do not approve, and I venture to suggest that methods of that kind are used to defend a cause for which there is no defense."

CHRIST IN PARIS THEME OF NEW FRENCH NOVEL.

ACCORDING to the New York Herald, a new novel, "Il est Resuscité" ("He is Risen"), written by Charles Morrice, has appeared. Its hero is, of course, Jesus of Nazareth, who is represented as having suddenly reappeared on earth in the city of Paris on December 14 last.

A forewarning of this tremendous event is given in the story by the recital of a peculiar miracle which affects all the daily press of Paris. Their chief advertising pages, although set up, electrotyped, and put upon the presses as usual, come forth blank, and there are blank spaces scattered through other pages. The director of The Dawn (Le Matin) offers 100,000 francs to any one who can solve the mystery of this phenomenon. None can do this at once, but it is at length remarked that in all the journals absolutely nothing but the truth has been printed since midday of December 14.

While the wonder of it all is still growing, a small announcement appears alone, and miraculously also, in the middle of the vast white space on the last page of each journal. This proclaims the presence of the Son of God in Paris and gives his address.

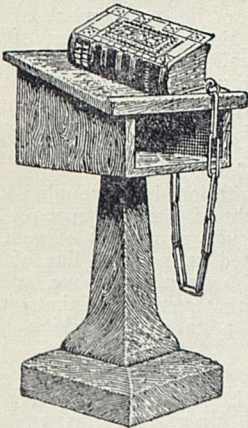

With the elimination of dishonesty, for the time being, from the world, business, in the modern sense of the word, has almost ceased to exist. Jesus on Montmartre preaches to the whole population of Paris. Little children are included in His second sermon on the Beatitudes. The story in the book is a vehicle of intense satire upon the evils of human society, and the capping of this satire is the decision of the President of the French Republic and the Prefect of Police to ask Jesus to leave Paris. He does so on Christmas day, and the powers of selfishness and corruption resume their sway.

A TERCENTENARY SOUVENIR.

A SCOTTISH firm with more than ordinary genius in the creation of book novelties has just put on the market a little memento of the tercentenary of the English Bible the commemoration of which will take place next month, widely throughout England and noticeably in America. The memento consists of a miniature model of a lectern made of wood, on which is chained a copy of the "Mite" Bible, the smallest edition ever printed. The illustration here given shows a creation not alone happy in conception, but charmingly appropriate to the interesting occasion. David Bryce & Son, of Glasgow, are the publishers of the novelty.

BEST SELLING BOOKS.

ACCORDING to the Bookman's lists, the six books (fiction) which sold best in the order of demand during December were:

	POINTS.
1. The Rosary. Barclay. (Putnam.)	$1.35. 298
2. Molly Make-Believe. Abbott. (Century Co.)	$1.00. .... 165

2. The Slant Book. Newell. (Harper.)
3. The Emerald City of Oz. Baum. (Reilly & Britton.)
4. Boy's Book of Model Aëroplanes. Collins. (Century Co.)
5. Kingsford Quarter. Barbour. (Century Co.)
6. Winning His "Y." Barbour. (Appleton.)

TRADE ASSOCIATIONS.

AMERICAN PUBLISHERS' ASSOCIATION.

THE annual meeting of the American Publishers' Association was held on Monday last. There was a discussion at some length of the publication of fiction at net prices. It is interesting to note that with hardly a dissenting voice the publishers are in favor of net fiction. The matter of discounts was also gone into.

The following directors were unanimously re-elected to serve for the ensuing year: J. J. Curtis, Frank H. Dodd, Frank H. Scott and George W. Jacobs.

The election of officers will probably take place within a week or two at a meeting of the Board of Directors, when due announcement will be made.

THE STATIONERS' BOARD OF TRADE.

The following have accepted invitations to speak at the Annual Banquet of the Stationers' Board of Trade, to be held on the evening of March 21 at the Hotel Plaza: Rev. Nehemiah Boynton, Rector Clinton Avenue Congregational Church of Brooklyn; George A. Post, president Railroad Business Association; Melville E. Stone, manager of Associated Press; George McAneny, president Borough of Manhattan; J. Clyde Oswald, publisher of the American Printer.

The committee also expect Hon. Woodrow Wilson, Governor of New Jersey, will attend and speak. Charles E. Falconer, president of the National Association of Stationers and Manufacturers, will also be one of the guests.

Tickets may be obtained of the Stationers' Board of Trade, 97 Nassau Street; and those of the trade who appreciate a most pleasant and profitable evening are urged now to make their plans to attend.

COMMUNICATIONS.

THE PRICE OF "BOOK PRICES CURRENT."

NEW YORK, Feb. 27, 1911.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: We are informed by McClurg & Company, of Chicago, that you listed the 1910 "American Book-Prices Current" as having been published at $6. This is not correct. The publication price is $8.

In order that you may understand the situation, we desire to say that the issue for 1909 was practically published at a loss. Since the issue of the first volume in 1895, the price has never been changed, although the number of lots included in the succeeding volumes have nearly trebled. For instance, the 1895 "Book-Prices Current" contained 6025 lots, the 1909 edition contained 16,750 lots, and the one for 1910 contains 16,994 lots. Under the circumstances, it became a question whether we would discontinue the publication of the work, or whether we would raise the price. We decided to do the latter, and even at this advanced price the result only shows a moderate profit, and would show a still smaller profit if the entire editorial expense were charged up against it.

We feel that it simply needs a statement of the facts in the case to make the advance in the price of this indispensable work appreciated. As a matter of fact, our subscribers, both in the trade and out, have, with a very few exceptions, willingly accepted this advance.

Please note that this work is now published by Dodd & Livingston.

Yours very truly,

DODD & LIVINGSTON.

[We had received no notice of change of price, and assumed it was the same as in previous years. We gladly, however, make correction. The above letter bears fresh testimony to the enormously increasing bulk, and therefore expense, of all current bibliographic record—a fact of which THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY office is only too well aware.—Ed. P. W.]

OBITUARY NOTES.

MARLBORO PACKARD WOODCOCK, senior member of the book and stationery firm of M. P. Woodcock & Son, Belfast, Me., died on February 1, after a year's illness, in his eighty-eighth year. In his early life Mr. Woodcock was a ship carpenter, builder and designer, and was very successful. He had served in both branches of the city government, and as deputy collector for four years, when in 1871, he bought the book and stationery business of H. G. O. Washburn. He remained in that business the rest of his life, latterly in partnership with one of his sons, Frank R. Woodcock, under the style of M. P. Woodcock & Son. A few years ago the firm bought from the Washburn estate the building at 29 Main Street, where the store is located and which has always been occupied for a book and stationery store since its erection in 1846. In 1881 Mr. Woodcock was elected mayor. He is survived by two sons, one of whom is Frank R. Woodcock, and one daughter.

SAM WALTER FOSS, poet and author and for the past twelve years librarian of the Somerville (Mass.) Public Library, died in Boston on February 26. Mr. Foss was born in Candia, N. H., in 1858, and was graduated from Brown University in 1882. After graduation he went at once into journalism as editor of Lynn Union. While working on this paper he was called upon to fill a column of humorous matter, and his jests were much appreciated and further work was given him. In 1898 he accepted the call to become librarian of the Somerville Public Library, and under his management the library has become one of the best known in the State for liberality of spirit and progressiveness of methods. In 1904 he was made president of the Massachusetts Library Club. Among his published volumes are: "Back Country Poems," 1892; "Whiffs from Wild Meadows," 1895; "Dreams in Homespun," 1897; "Songs of War and Peace," 1899; and "Songs of the Average Man," 1907. These five volumes contain more than four hundred poems.

FRIEDRICH SPIELHAGEN, who stood in the first rank of the novelists of the old school, died in Berlin on February 25. He was born at Magdeburg, February 24, 1829, so was on the eve of the ripe age of eighty-two. Friedrich Spielhagen began his active life as a teacher at Leipsic. In 1859 he became editor of the Zeitung für Norddeutschland in Hanover. In 1862 he moved to Berlin, and for several years was editor of Westermann's Illustrierte Monatshefte. The surroundings of his native place were always dearly loved by Spielhagen, and formed the background of many of his novels. He became known in the United States in the early sixties by translations published by Leypoldt & Holt of his "Problematic Characters," its sequel, "Through Night to Light," and "Hammer and Anvil." These books are still in the catalogue of Henry Holt & Co., though they have been for some time out of print. Spielhagen's first novels dealt with social problems, and at the time they appeared they seemed very outspoken. His collected works appeared in Germany in twenty-two volumes in 1895. He also did some fine work as translator, especially from the French, and as a critic he held a position of authority.

PERSONAL NOTES.

BENJAMIN E. CALKINS, the well-known stationer and bookseller of Butte, Montana, and Mrs. Maria G. Symons were married February 15.

DANIEL J. FITZGERALD, treasurer of the Fitzgerald Book and Art Store, Holyoke, Mass., was struck by an engine of a passenger train recently and escaped instant death in some miraculous manner. Mr. Fitzgerald suffered a badly shattered elbow by the accident.

KARL C. CURRIER, for the past twelve years associated with Little, Brown & Co., has now accepted a position with the Book Department of The H. B. Clafin Co., and will represent them on the road through the Middle West and the Pacific Coast. He has just left to call on the Pacific Coast trade.

HENRY SILVER, a former member of the staff of Punch, left property valued at £1,197.867. An English contemporary says he is believed to be the first literary man to become a millionaire. Even those who were intimately associated with him, and to whom he has made huge bequests, had not the faintest idea that he possessed such wealth. His first contribution to Punch appeared in 1848, and from 1857 to 1870 he was a member of the famous Table. He was also an intimate friend of Charles Keane. It must be remembered that an English "millionaire" is worth five of ours. We do not at this moment, however, recall any other writer who died a "millionaire," even in the American sense.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

CASSELL & COMPANY will publish at once the new romantic novel by Percy Brehner, "The Brown Mask." The brown mask conceals a mysterious highwayman, whose chivalry, deeds of daring and faithfulness to his love combine to make him one of the popular characters of recent fiction.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY published this week the twelfth and final volume of "The Works of James Buchanan," which have been collected and edited by John Bassett Moore. Volume twelve is "Biographical," and contains a photogravure portrait of James Buchanan from the engraving of J. C. Buttre, 1857, and the index of the twelve volumes.

DODD, MEAD & COMPANY have ready a new book by E. Temple Thurston, "The Patchwork Papers," full of pictures of life, impressions from a novelist's sketch-book, not formal enough for essays, nor sufficiently constructed to be called short stories. The papers are characteristically fresh and simple, like a series of friendly confidences given during a frank and unaffected conversation.

A. R. KELLER & COMPANY, New York, have just published Walter Wellman's "The Aerial Age, a Thousand Miles by Airship Over the Atlantic Ocean," in which the author tells of his experiences on airship voyages over the Polar Sea, and in the voyage, last year, of the airship "America," in which he endeavored to fly to Europe. Mr. Wellman also tells of the past, present and future of aerial navigation. The book is profusely illustrated.

BRAM STOKER'S "Famous Impostors" (Sturgis & Walton Company), with its accounts of swindlers, humbugs, pretenders and the like, is proving as entertaining in England as it has here. Punch has the following quip about this volume: "Owing to the general election, the publication of Mr. Bram Stoker's new work, 'Famous Impostors,' is postponed."—The Bookseller. "We beg to observe, in our best cynical vein, that it was a pity to miss such an appropriate moment."

THE English translation of "Woman and Socialism," by August Bebel, the veteran leader of the Social-democrats in the German Reichstag, has just been published by the Socialistic Literature Co. It demonstrates the development of the social position of woman from primeval days to the present, and concludes with a prediction of her complete emancipation from every form of injustice under which she has suffered for ages.

THE exchange agency of the Smithsonian Institution, managed for six years by Karl W. Hiersemann, of Leipzig, passed on January 1 to the newly-founded American Institute in Berlin. Hereafter the costs will be borne by the German government instead of that of the United States. Hugo Münsterberg, as director of the institute, signs a long statement, giving also detailed information as to the plan to be followed. The statement is reprinted in Börsenblatt für den deutschen Buchhandel for December 10, 1910.

STEPHEN CHALMERS, author of "When Love Calls Men to Arms," has written another story of adventure in Scotland, this one, "A Prince of Romance," which Small, Maynard & Company publish, tells of what befell a young American, wrecked on the Scottish coast, who is mistaken by the inhabitants of a small village for a descendant of the Young Pretender. They immediately organize an uprising to put him on the English throne. The young man is really a secret agent of the United States, and as the time is during the War of 1812 he finds himself in a most embarrassing position between his real and fancied conspiracies.

THE BAKER & TAYLOR COMPANY have published recently two books of educational interest. The first is V. M. Hillyer's "Kindergarten at Home," a course of play-lessons for the use of those who have the care of children who for some reason it is impossible to send to kindergarten. Simple materials only are required to carry on these lessons and many diagrams explain their use. The other book is an addition to the Guide Series, "A Guide to English History," by Henry W. Elson. The aim of the work is to follow the main line of national development and to give something typical of every great period.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY have ready Henri Bergson's "Matter and Memory," translated by Nancy Margaret Paul and W. Scott Palmer from the fifth edition; the author is professor at the College de France and member of the Institut; "The Two Religions of Israel, with a Re-Examination of the Prophetic Narratives and Utterances," by the Rev. T. K. Cheyne, emeritus professor of interpretation of Holy Scripture at Oxford; "I Wonder," by Stephen Paget, a collection of essays for young people by the author of "Confessio Medici," and C. Von Wyss's "Beasts and Birds," in the Color Books for Boys and Girls.

IN the "Travellers' Number" of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY our compositor made a brave effort to create a new city for the boys to stop at, and in the stress of getting the last form to press we did not discover the futility of the attempt. On page 1083 an advertisement of "The Southern" should read "leading hotel of Columbus, Ohio," not Coleman. The joke is on us, but we trust the travellers when they get around to Ohio's capital city will assure Holloran & McNamee that their home for commercial men was in no danger of being forgotten, even though its locality was a short-lived mystery in the columns of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY.

FRANK TOUSEY, the New York publisher, last week began in the District Supreme Court, at Washington, D. C., mandamus proceedings to compel Frank H. Hitchcock, Postmaster-General, to admit his publication, the Wild West Weekly, to second class rates. He alleges that the refusal of the rate has cost him $25,000. He says he has complied with all the regulation in reference to second class periodicals, and that Hitchcock, in directing the postmaster in New York not to receive the publication, has acted illegally and arbitrarily. Justice Barnard ordered Mr. Hitchcock to show cause why he should not admit the publication.

A LITTLE over a year ago "A Marriage Under the Terror," by Patricia Wentworth, was awarded the first prize in the Melrose competition. Miss Wentworth's new novel, "More Than Kin," which will appear shortly under the Putnam imprint, should in every way strengthen her literary prestige. In it the author turns again to the period of the Terror; shows France in the throes of the Revolution; depicts the relentless malice of the leaders of the bloodthirsty and unreasoning hordes that swarmed through the streets of Paris celebrating the horrible orgies of Death; gives us a thrilling account of hair-breadth escapes and daring rescues, and withal presents a love story in which the tender blends with the heroic.

AMONG the recent importations of Charles Scribner's Sons are: "Henri II: His Court and Times" by H. Noel Williams, author of "The Fascinating Duc de Richelieu," a most lively and vivid picture of the court life and the history of France under Francis I. and Henri II.; "Louis XIV. and Madame de Maintenon," by Charlotte Lady Blennerhassett, an entertaining and valuable account of Louis XIV. and his times; "A History of Lace," by Mrs. Bury Palliser, entirely revised, rewritten and enlarged, under the editorship of M. Jourdain and Alice Dryden; "Piranesi: His Life and Works," by Arthur Samuel, the first monograph in the English language containing all the available facts on this remarkable etcher; and "Alphabets Old and New, for the Use of Craftsmen," by Lewis F. Day.

D. APPLETON & Co. have just issued "Railroad Traffic and Rates," by Emory R. Johnson, professor of transportation and commerce in the University of Pennsylvania, and Grover G. Huebner, instructor on the same subjects in the same university. The authors have given the subject years of study, and have received information and advice from many prominent railway officials and other traffic experts. The book is written to meet the demand of men in the railway service for complete and authentic information regarding traffic services and rate systems. It is neither an attack upon railroads nor a defense of them. It is an exhaustive account of the intricate and detailed work connected with railroad traffic and rate making. It is issued in two handsome volumes with a good, practical index.

"BRAHMS" is the subject of an illustrated biographical and critical study by J. A. Fuller-Maitland, in the New Library of Music, published this week by John Lane Company. In addition to the portraits and a series of drawings by Professor W. von Beckerath, the illustrations include reproductions of autograph manuscript. In the critical portion of the author's discussion he considers separately the pianoforte works, concerted orchestral works, songs, music, for solo voices in combination, and choral works. Lists are given of compositions by Brahms arranged in order of opus-numbers and of first lines and titles of vocal compositions. "Feminine Influence on the Poets," by Edward Thomas (published by John Lane Company, March 3), treats its subject under the following heads: The Inspiration of Poetry, Women and Inspiration, Women as Poets, Women, Nature and Poetry, Mothers of Poets, Poets and Friendly Women, The Tenth Muse, and Patronesses. The book is illustrated from portraits. Under the title "Silences of the Moon" Henry Law Webb groups a collection of reveries and reflections set down apparently somewhat at random, but following a logical line of philosophic thought. The book is dedicated to W. Compton Leith, who is the author of "Apologia Diffidentis." Three novels are published this week by the same house: "Compensation," by Anne Warwick, an American love story, being the romance of a young girl in diplomatic and social life. "The Sins of the Children," by Horace W. C. Newte, which draws a picture of the conflict between a young girl's aspirations toward a social position and her affection for a father in humble circumstances. "The Lass with the Delicate Air," by A. R. Goring-Thomas, of which the scene is laid partly in London and partly in Paris.

CANADIAN NOTES.

CASSELL & Co.'s Canadian branch recently completed their stock-taking, and state that their Canadian business in 1910 was 50 per cent. greater than in 1909.

CHATHAM, ONT.—Lindsay S. Parrott, who for several years past has conducted a book, stationery and wall paper business at 24 King Street, is moving to more commodious premises at 84 King Street, formerly occupied by the Smith & Ash dry goods store.

MITCHELL, ONT.—Fred C. Horde has bought the stock of books, stationery, etc., of A. J. Blowes, of this place, and will remove it to his own store at once. He will have one of the largest book, stationery and wall paper businesses in the west.

ST. THOMAS, ONT.—Notice has been given of the incorporation of Gundy's Bookstore, Ltd. (capital $25,000), to carry on the business of wholesale and retail booksellers, publishers, stationers, etc., by purchasing the business of Gundy's Bookstore at St. Thomas.

TORONTO, ONT.—The Musson Book Co. have arranged with Doubleday, Page & Co., New York, to carry in Canada all the O. Henry novels. Another story is being added to the building occupied by The Musson Company to take care of their increased stock.

TORONTO, ONT.—The Copp, Clark Co. have recently been appointed agents in Canada for Dean's Rag Toy Books for the season of 1911, as well as for Dean's rag toys, etc.

TORONTO, ONT.—McClelland & Goodchild have been appointed Canadian agents for the Norman W. Henley Co., New York, publishers of scientific books, and for the William T. Comstock Co., New York, publishers of architectural books.

TORONTO, ONT.—A new bookstore has been opened at 307 Yonge Street, called The Toronto Book Co. The proprietor is L. J. Skill, who was a member of the Antiquarian Book Co. Rare books and standard sets will be carried.

TORONTO, ONT.—The Church Book Room at 235 Yonge Street has gone into liquidation.

TORONTO, ONT.—Owing to the fact that a United States restaurant company have purchased the premises now occupied by the Art Metropole at 149 Yonge Street, that company have purchased Albert Britnell's bookstore at 241 Yonge Street, and will during the coming summer erect thereon a new three-story brick and stone building suitable for their purposes. Mr. Britnell has not yet decided whether he will continue in business or not. He owns some property about ten doors above his present location, and may open up business there.

WEYBURN, SASK.—The book and fancy stationery store of Nixon & Co. has been sold to E. H. and C. F. Kempton, and will in future be known as the Kempton Bookstore.

BUSINESS NOTES.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Richard H. Worsley, dealer in technical books and periodicals, 512 Monadnock Block, is giving up this business to become manager of the Book Department of the Myron C. Clark Publishing Co.

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—A. M. Levy is again buyer of books and stationery in the Jones Dry Goods Co. under its reorganization.

NEW YORK CITY.—O. T. Harris removed to 373 Fourth Avenue on March 1. Increased business requires much larger quarters.

NEW YORK CITY.—Charles E. Bonnell, of the late firm of Bonnell, Silver & Co., will open the "Madison Avenue Bookstore," at 587 Madison Avenue, between 56th and 57th Streets, of which he will be the sole manager. His many friends in the trade wish him a large measure of success in his new venture, a success which seems probable in a neighborhood so convenient for his clientele.

SAN JOSE, CAL.—Walton & McFeroni, booksellers and stationers, have sold out to F. W. English.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo.—The firm of Browne Book & Stationery Co. have dissolved, James Q. Browne having disposed of his interests to Burt P. Smith, who will continue the business under the old name. Mr. Browne has no plans for the future, but after a rest will get into some business. He has led an active life, and it will be natural for him to get to work again. Mr. Browne started this business as Browne Brothers over fifteen years ago, and has had the management of it ever since.

WOOSTER, O.—The Brandt Bookstore was sold recently to G. W. Burkholder, of Mansfield, who will take possession in the near future. The store will be remodelled and enlarged, it being the intention of the new owner to use the second floor as well as the first.

AUCTION SALES.

PICK-UPS.

WOMANLY LOGIC.

"NEVER," groaned a Euclid Avenue dealer the other day—"never try to argue a woman into believing that she ought to pay a bill when she thinks otherwise. I tried it this morning—presented a bill for some stuff ordered two months ago. Here was her irrefutable logic:

"I never ordered any pictures."

"Well, if I did, you never delivered them."

"If you did deliver them, I never got them."

"If I did, I paid for them."

"If I didn't get them, I must have had some good reason for it."

"And if I had paid, of course I won't pay again."

"What d'you think of that," concluded the dealer wearily.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

HEALTHS?

"THE late Eli Perkins," said a magazine editor, "had an apt way of driving home his points with little stories.

"Perkins once offered me a sketch at a bargain price. I accepted the sketch eagerly, and I asked for more at the same figure.

"But Perkins, laughing sourly, shook his head.

"He said I reminded him of a tramp to whom a genial old lady gave a nickel, saying:

"Here, my good man, take this nickel and drink my health in a glass of beer."

"Thank you, ma'am," said the tramp. "But you look so infirm, hadn't I better drink two beers?"

BOOKS WANTED

Under this head booktrade subscribers, under their own names, are given five nonpareil lines (exclusive of address) free advertisement for books out of print in any issue except special numbers, but not exceeding 100 lines a year. If over five lines are sent the excess is at 10 cents a line. Books not out of print, repeated matter, and all advertisements from nonsubscribers cost 10 cents a line. Objectionable books are excluded so far as they are noted.

In answering, please state edition, condition and price, including postage or express charges. Houses that will deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis should put [Cash] after their firm name. The appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the WEEKLY, does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it endeavors to safeguard its columns by withdrawing their use from irresponsible advertisers, booksellers should take usual precautions in extending credit.

Write your wants plainly, on one side of the sheet only. Illegible "wants" are ignored. The WEEKLY is not responsible for errors. Parties with whom there is no account must pay in advance.

Book Trade Directories

1. A Directory of Public Libraries in the United States and Canada, containing over 1000 addresses of the more important ones, each with the name of the librarian, total number of volumes in library, total accessions during 1909, yearly income, and amount expended for book purchase during the past year. Nothing better in the way in a select list has ever been attempted.

This directory is part of the "Annual Library Index." 8vo, cloth, $5.00. Not printed separately.

2. A Directory of Booksellers in the principal towns of the United States and Canada, with their specialties noted (including the names of Department Stores that sell books), with street addresses in large cities. It eliminates the names of drug stores, cigar shops and newsdealers that sell periodicals and paper bound books only. No better selected list has ever been printed.

This directory, printed with interleaved blank pages for annotations, forms part of "The Annual American Catalog." 8vo, cloth, $3.00. Not printed separately.

For $3 you get the "Annual American Catalog of Books," with the Directory of Booksellers.

For $5 you get the "Annual Library Index," with the Directory of Libraries.

Whitaker's Reference Catalogue of Current Literature, 1910

Published in 3 volumes. Price, $6.00 per set

WAS ISSUED LAST OCTOBER

The next edition will not be published until 1914. Order promptly while copies may be had.

To those who hunt up English titles, even but occasionally, it is indispensable. The Index volume of 1,100 pages is alone worth more than the price of the set.

Important Notice!

FLORENCE L. BARCLAY, (Mrs. Charles Barclay), author of The Rosary and The Mistress of Shenstone, has in preparation for publication in September, 1911, a third story which is expected to secure equal popularity. The book trade may be somewhat confused by a recent advertisement of a story by a Mrs. Hubert Barclay.

The publishers of Mrs. Hubert Barclay's volume have apparently been willing to further the chance of this book being credited to the author of The Rosary by adopting for their cover and lettering and wrapper a style closely following that of The Rosary and The Mistress of Shenstone.
